IT Systems & Software Consultant

"Technology at its best is invisible, enabling human creativity and connection rather than demanding attention for itself."

About Me

With over 20 years of experience in the IT field and three decades rooted in France, I've cultivated expertise across nearly every layer of digital infrastructure. My journey has taken me from physical network installations and Active Directory administration to sophisticated application development, streamlined CI/CD pipelines, containerized environments, and robust database architectures.

My unique strength lies in bridging technological worlds — understanding both the foundational hardware that powers systems and the elegant software architectures that make them valuable. This full-spectrum perspective enables me to create holistic solutions where every component works in harmony.
